

WE MEDICS ARE A CHARITABLE BUNCH.

Evidence:

1. The offering of a chocolate bar to a famished companion in the foyer of MSTC.
2. The poking of a snoozing individual by a concerned fellow medic as JM's gaze lingered near.
3. The elicitation of the 'Recovery Position' by a medic to a drunken comrade.

Clearly, this compassion needs to manifest itself.
The answer?

VOTING MARIA TSAKOK FOR RAG

Things That I Would Bring to the Role:

- Previous long-term potentiating events. I.e. Experienced. As part of a team at school, I have raised £20,000, for 35 different charities as well as worked in fundraising for the Stroke Association.
- I will be the receptor to your ligands. I am very passionate about fundraising for charity, and would be very willing to listen to anyone's suggestions or ideas for a particular charity.
- As Entz for college, I have had experience in organising events in the Oxford setting.

Ideas For the Position:

- Organize a charitable Funfair in Trinity Term, hopefully working with alongside Entz (coconut stalls, pin-the-glasses on JM, candy floss etc)
- Small-scale fundraising in the form of cake sales and jewellery sales.
- Publicize any Sponsor-Me individuals who would like support from their peers.
- Get MedSoc involved in uni-wide RAG to encourage fundraising for a medical charity of our choice.
